AWA Mobile Vaccine Clinic Comes to Camden County College

February 27, 2019

Voorhees, NJ – Animal Welfare Association (AWA) announces their mobile vaccine clinic will have a monthly residency at Camden County College, Blackwood Campus one Saturday a month through the 2020 school year. The goal is to bring more accessibility of pet healthcare throughout Camden County and to the student population surrounding Camden County College.

“We saw a need in the area for our mobile veterinary clinic to participate in low-cost vaccine clinics to help with the pet healthcare needs of the students who attend Camden County College and residents of the surrounding areas who have limited access to affordable pet care options,” says Maya Richmond, Executive Director at AWA.

No appointment is needed to visit the clinic and clients will be helped on a first come first served basis. The AWA Mobile Vaccine Clinic will provide healthy pets with their core vaccines and routine tests. Clients are asked to bring prior vaccination records for their pets if available. If an illness or abnormality is found the pet owner will be offered an examination / care appointment.
